FALL 2006

One solitary life touches so many

By David J. Spittal, president Southern Wesleyan University

This centennial year, many individuals have shared stories and memories of their Southern Wesleyan years. Many of these stories recall the names of those who sacrificed much and whose lives made an indelible and permanent impact on them. Others tell me stories of humorous moments that still bring laughter and sometimes tears. Others relate stories of milestone moments or significant personal experiences that never seem to fade from memory. These stories are often introduced by the comment, "I can see it as if it were yesterday."

Clearly, the Southern Wesleyan University story is vibrant and real to many thousands who have walked this campus. Its story continues to have life and vitality because it is preserved within the hearts and souls of those whose lives reflect it. I have noticed, however, that these many and varied stories always involve the same person.

There have been many individuals who have shaped our story, but there is only One whose life and ministry has influenced the university throughout the century. His knowledge is infinite, His sacrifice complete, His teaching comprehensive and His love for people deeper than the sea. He has proven to be faithful, loyal and unwavering through the best and worst of times. His influence has transformed more lives than any other person. I have discovered Him in every photograph, attending every alumni reunion, and He is always the central character in every story.

We are celebrating 100 years of history and, for years to come, people will gather here again and again to tell their Southern Wesleyan stories. These stories are different, but they are also all the same. The story is about one solitary life that changed lives then and continues to do so today.

That solitary life is Jesus Christ, and we gather to celebrate because His story is our story.

International dining

Southern Wesleyan University's campus in Central was home for Big League World Series players from around the world as they competed July 29 – Aug. 5 on the baseball field in nearby Easley. The 180 players lived in university dormitories and dined in Southern Wesleyan University's Dining Commons. SWU Chef Karl Ekberg tailored meals to suit international preferences, from having rice served at breakfast to including extra-spicy food for the Latin American players.

Russians visit SWU

Russian educators visited Southern Wesleyan University to tour the campus in Central and meet with university administrators to exchange ideas about education. The Rotary Club of Clemson hosted the group of Russian educators during their visit to the area, introducing them to local education systems and to what life is like in South Carolina. Southern Wesleyan University treated the Rotarians and the Russian group to a luncheon May 1.

Above, Rotary President Bill Mays exchanges club banners with Russian facilitator Madina Bikbulatova. James Hansen, second from right, former vice president of development at SWU and Rotary Club member, organized the university visit. Other Russian visitors are Irina Nelyubova, Mikhail Mosheyev, Zinaida Arshinskaya, Tatyana Irzina, Olga Izhko, Tatyana Maksimovskaya, Svetlana Kan, Dmitriy Savostenkov, Slava Fedulina and Yelena Zabiyyako.

Golfers tee off for Promise Fund

Southern Wesleyan University's annual P.B. Wood Golf Tournament will be Oct. 23 at Pickens Country Club.

The tournament raises support for the Promise Fund, which helps keep the cost of attending SWU low by providing scholarship assistance and funding for various academic and student programs. The tournament is held in honor of Paul Baker Wood, Southern Wesleyan University professor emeritus and psychologist.

Geoff Hart, WYFF News 4 Sports Director, is scheduled to be this year's celebrity golfer.

Prizes will be awarded to each member of the first, second and third place teams. Prizes will also be awarded to the player who has the longest drive, as well as the player who is closest to the pin. There will also be a hole-in-one prize and various door prizes.

The entry fee is $100 per golfer and $400 per team. The fee includes greens fees, cart, lunch and various giveaways. There are several levels of sponsorship available. Tee sponsorships are $100 and hole sponsorships are $250. Corporate sponsorships are $1,000 and include one golfer registration. Co-sponsorships are $2,500 and include one team registration. Registration is limited to 36 teams.

To play, sponsor or support the Promise Fund, please contact Erin Fellers at efellers@swu.edu or (864) 644-5006, or 1-800-282-8798, ext. 5006.

Students to call on SWU friends

Throughout the fall, students will be calling and asking alumni and friends to support the Promise Fund.

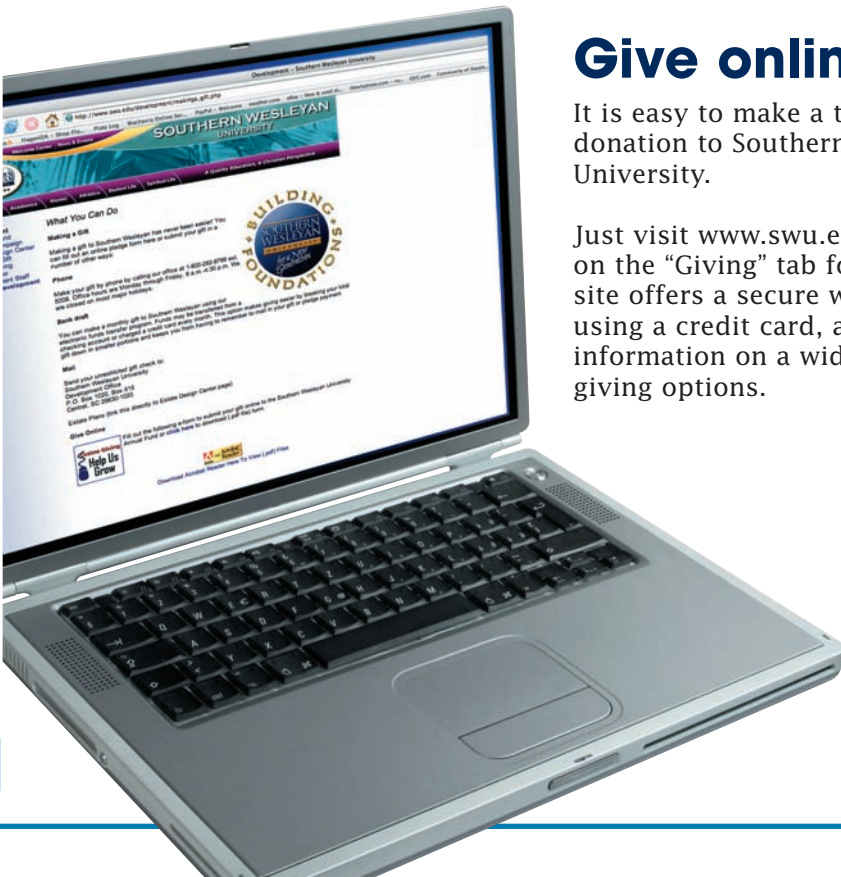

The Promise Fund provides support for scholarships and numerous academic and student programs. Without donors, Southern Wesleyan University would not be able to provide the proper education that our students deserve. The cost of higher education is expensive, and without donor support, some deserving students may not be able to afford to attend SWU.

By answering the call, university patrons can change the world for so many young people. A tax-deductible gift can give students the ability to become the world changers that God has called them to be. All donation commitments have until June 30 to be completely paid, and any donation can be paid in installments or as a one-time gift.

Southern Wesleyan University also needs prayers. Without prayers, SWU would not be able to continue into its second century of service.

For details or to donate to the Promise Fund, please contact Erin Fellers at (864) 644-5006 or efellers@swu.edu.

Give online

It is easy to make a tax-deductible donation to Southern Wesleyan University.

Just visit www.swu.edu and click on the "Giving" tab for details. The site offers a secure way to donate using a credit card, as well as information on a wide range of giving options.

Promise Fund contributions approach $300,000

Southern Wesleyan University benefactors gave $297,979.54 for the Promise Fund during the 2005-2006 year. This money helps keep costs low for students to attend SWU and helps provide programs and support for our entire student body. Even though we did not reach our goal of $350,000, we are optimistic that we will exceed that goal during the 2006-2007 fiscal year. Together, we can make a difference in the lives of our students and SWU. Please join us as we strive to reach our goal of $350,000 this year. Every gift is important and every donor can make a difference.

Business major loves to help others

She loves to help other students and always has a smile ready.

Meet Meriel Cleveland, a sophomore business administration major from Walhalla.

Living on the Southern Wesleyan University campus in Central, Cleveland says she enjoys the home atmosphere she feels.

“The faculty and staff are so sincere. They try to take care of you here. They understand your problems,” she said.

A problem that once stood between Cleveland and her dream of attending Southern Wesleyan University was the cost of attending classes here.

“Deciding where I wanted to continue my education was one of the biggest decisions I have ever had to make,” Cleveland said. “I knew the Lord was leading me to this school, but I was very uncertain about my financial situation.”

Cleveland discussed the matter with her sister.

“My sister influenced me a lot. It was almost like she knew where I needed to be even more than I did,” she said. “I now know that Southern Wesleyan University is where I am supposed to be. I wasn’t meant to go to a larger school.”

“Through generous contributions, it is easier for me and my family to meet my financial responsibilities as a student at Southern Wesleyan University. By putting all faith in the Lord, He made it possible for me to attend this university.”

For fun, Cleveland is a Sigma Delta peer advisor to younger students. She is also a member of the gospel choir and serves as a university ambassador. Cleveland likes to spend time with friends and family, go to movies and go shopping, she said.

“I really enjoy helping others. Just knowing that I’ve helped solve a problem or made someone feel better is a great thing. That really, really brightens my day,” she said.

After graduation from Southern Wesleyan University, Cleveland hopes to attend Johnson and Wales University, study culinary arts and open her own restaurant. She is also considering going into human services because of her love for helping others.

Without donations, students like Cleveland would be unable to attend SWU and pursue their dreams. For details on giving to the Promise Fund, contact Erin Fellers at (864) 644-5006, 1-800-282-8798, ext. 5006, or e-mail efellers@swu.edu.

We'll help . . . reduce your taxes

The timing of your charitable gift is important.

If you guarantee now, during your lifetime, that property will be distributed to charity at your death, you can receive an income tax charitable deduction today.

You can maintain the benefit from your property, including the income that it produces. Or if you wish to make a future gift of your home or farm, you retain the right to live in it or farm it.

And it is even possible to avoid capital gains tax on appreciated property, should it be subsequently sold.

To more thoroughly examine this concept, we have prepared a special planning report, "How to Receive a Charitable Deduction Without Giving Up the Benefit of Your Property." Please write for your free copy today. Complete the information below and mail it to SWU in the enclosed envelope.

"I'm paying too much in income taxes. But with current tax laws, it's difficult to reduce my taxes with deductions."

Please send me a free planning report, "How to Receive a Charitable Deduction Without Giving Up the Benefit of your Property." I understand that there is no obligation.

SWU graduate inspired by local leader

One Southern Wesleyan University alumna finds rewards and inspiration as she pursues a graduate degree at Clemson University.

In March, SWU graduate Rupal Shah received the Walter T. Cox Graduate Student Achievement Award at Clemson University's Spring Awards Banquet.

The award is given to a student who has a minimum GPA of 3.0 and has completed nine credit hours at Clemson University, in addition to leadership, hands-on learning and diversity criteria.

"I am truly privileged to be a recipient of this award and I would like to emphasize that this award is a testimony of all those unique and valuable lessons that I learned at Southern Wesleyan University," she said.

On the evening Shah received her award, her special guests included Southern Wesleyan University President David Spittal and SWU English professor Betty Mealy.

"I graduated from Southern Wesleyan University in May of 2004 and I'm a proud SWU graduate," Shah said.

"SWU is responsible for shaping and molding me and teaching me many long-term lessons of life. At SWU, I had the opportunity to truly 'learn,' not just to study."

While a student at Southern Wesleyan University, Shah worked part-time on campus at the Health Center and worked part-time off campus at Oconee Memorial Hospital.

"I also had the opportunity to serve my community through Hospice of the Foothills in Seneca, the Helping Hands Children's Home in Central and the American Red Cross of Pickens County," she said. "I was also able to serve far and beyond my community by attending a medical mission trip in Panama, Central America. I grew at SWU – spiritually, academically, socially, physically and mentally through all the experiences and opportunities that came my way." Shah is now pursuing a master's degree in microbiology at Clemson.

Clemson's Dean Cox began his lifelong commitment to Clemson University as a student-athlete in the fall of 1935. After graduating, he joined the Clemson coaching staff as line coach, a position he held until September 1951. In 1984, he was inducted into the Clemson University Athletic Hall of Fame.

Cox was named assistant to the president of Clemson University and director of public relations and alumni affairs in September 1951, a position he held until 1955. He was then named vice president for student affairs and dean of students, a title he held for the next 30 years. In July 1985, he was appointed as the 10th president of Clemson University, a position he held through February 1986 when he retired as president emeritus.

He retired from full-time employment in April 1987 and passed away in recent months.

"People like Dean Cox inspire me to make the necessary changes and contributions in our society today," Shah said.

"It is obvious that there are opportunities all around me to serve – my university, my community and our society world-wide," she said. "It is just a matter of taking the time to search for those opportunities and to respond when necessary. I am grateful to God for providing me with all the unique opportunities that have brought me to where I am today."

Vertical Kids Ministry brings family fun to homecoming

Earl Long, a 1990 graduate of Southern Wesleyan University, brings his ministry back to campus for homecoming on Oct. 28 at the university's campus in Central.

Long promises to entertain with a combination of cool illusions, puppets, juggling, interactive singing, costumes, ballooning, games, humor and audience participation.

Vertical Kids Ministry seeks to provide entertainment as well as solid spiritual value.

With a show designed for all ages, Long is equally adept at entertaining children, youth, college students and adults.

For details on homecoming events, log on to www.swu.edu or call the Alumni Center at 1-800-282-8798, ext. 5384.

Hometown mayor strives to improve lives

Ambition and passion for serving her community drive Carol Burdette, mayor of Pendleton.

Burdette, a 1982 Southern Wesleyan University graduate, has a broad smile that emerges when she talks about her political career.

“We are very privileged people to live in America,” she said. “I don’t think it’s fair to take from the community without giving back.”

Burdette has lived in the Pendleton area her whole life – growing up just outside the city limits.

“As a child growing up in this town, I would never, ever, ever have dreamed I would be mayor,” she said. “When an opportunity arises, I try to take advantage of what God is offering.”

In 1987, Burdette’s roommate told her that a seat on the town council was going to be vacant. The opportunity to serve on the Pendleton Town Council intrigued Burdette, she said.

“I was convinced that no one else was running for the seat,” she said. However, the day after Burdette decided to run for office, another person announced their candidacy and she had a political race on her hands.

“I take things very seriously. If I’m going to run, I’m going to make every effort to win,” she said.

Burdette decided to knock on every door in town, introducing herself and asking people to vote for her. The day before the election, she finished her goal of visiting every house.

Carol Burdette, a Southern Wesleyan University graduate, pauses at the town square in Pendleton.

Her opponent did not choose to campaign, she said.

“I won by five votes,” she said with a laugh. “But I fell in love with the whole idea of serving folks in town, so I stuck with it,” she said.

She has served 10 years on the town council and an additional 9 years as Pendleton’s mayor.

“I’m pleased to be able to share the talents God has blessed me with. I get a lot of joy from it,” she said.

Many of Burdette’s experiences have helped her develop public service skills.

“My grandmother was a very special person in my life,” she said. Burdette was age 14 when her mother passed away.

“My persistence and tenacity, I inherited from my grandmother. She wanted me to succeed,” she said. “I’m extremely ambitious. I have aspirations to a state- or national-level office.”

Burdette recalls being very shy as a girl. She worked at the drug store in Pendleton, but was too shy to ask people their names when they charged something to the store. So, with practice, she learned the names and faces of all of the drug store’s customers. The skill of name recollection has been helpful in her political career, she said.

She is also thankful to her Pendleton High School teachers for their guidance when she was a student there, especially her French teacher, Laura Dowis, and English teacher Claire Warren.

Burdette earned a bachelor’s degree in psychology at Southern Wesleyan University and had considered becoming a guidance counselor. Her first job was with the South Carolina Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism and all of her jobs have been in government or public service.

“That knowledge has been helpful,” she said. Burdette now works for the United Way of Anderson County. Politics is all about people, Burdette said.

"I take great pride in helping people who can't help themselves," such as families who can't provide Christmas celebrations for their children, she said. "I have a soft spot for children."

And Burdette believes the government's job is to serve people.

"If it's not illegal or unethical and we can do it for someone, we need to do it," she said.

The items on Burdette's "to do" list for Pendleton include updating the town's water system, equipment and vehicles.

"I'm a planner at heart," she said. "We have a huge growth spurt that's about to happen in Pendleton," she said.

But while it's important to enhance Pendleton's downtown area, Burdette wants to maintain the town's small, historic town feeling, protecting the town's trees and creating a pedestrian-friendly environment.

Burdette enjoys volunteering, reading and spending time with her Boykin spaniel, John C. Calhoun, or "J.C." for short.

"I love to do hands-on volunteering," she said. Burdette works on litter pick-ups, marathon fund-raisers and home repair projects for the needy.

As a college student, Burdette was attracted to the Christian environment at Southern Wesleyan University, she said.

"I met wonderful people there," she said. "I think going to school there helped keep me in this area.

"I think staying in Pendleton has been a good thing for me and I hope it's been good for the community."

Hot summer jazz

Aspiring jazz artists spent four days on the Southern Wesleyan University campus in Central at SWU Summer Jazz 2006. Students from across the state received instruction in jazz improvisation, jammed with clinicians and listened to and worked with New York City jazz recording artists John Fedchock and Scott Wendholt, who headlined the instructional staff at the 6th annual SWU Summer Jazz event. At right, guitarist Bruce Helgerson of Anderson instructs a group of jazz guitarists at the camp. Dr. Joe Brockinton

SWU appoints new cabinet member

Southern Wesleyan University President David Spittal has announced the appointment of Dr. Joe Brockinton as the university's vice president for student life.

Brockinton was selected after a nationwide search. He assumed responsibilities for this assignment on July 1.

"We are delighted that Dr. Brockinton has accepted the appointment and look forward to his assignment to this key campus position," Dr. Spittal said. "He brings a national reputation for his leadership in student life through the development of a 'relational' approach to student life development."

Before coming to SWU, Brockinton served as Vice President for Student Development and Dean of Students at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ken. In that assignment, he developed a recognized program for student development and is a leader in the student life area among his colleagues, according to Spittal. His background includes both coaching and teaching in addition to various assignments in the area of student development.

He completed his undergraduate degree in biology and physical education at Asbury College, a master's degree in physical education (exercise physiology) from the University of Kentucky and his Ed.D. in educational administration from the University of Louisville. Spittal said Brockinton has an interest in all areas of student life programming including active involvement in athletic coaching and programs.

"We welcome Joe and Willa as new members of the Southern Wesleyan University family and look forward to his leadership as we continue to build our student life programs," Spittal said.

The Brockintons have two children and one grandchild.

Rubbing out a little history

One Pickens resident is well-acquainted with medieval knights in English cathedrals.

Eleanor Cotton Gardiner is a creator and collector of brass rubbings – designs transferred from ancient burial covers.

She has lived in many countries, but in 2001 came to live in Pickens and brought her collection of brass rubbings with her. Recently, Gardiner donated the collection of about 40 brass rubbings to Southern Wesleyan University.

“They came from churches. I think it’s appropriate to give them to a Christian university. The rubbings were not for sale, as many of the churches were poor and only charged a small access fee,” Gardiner said. “I’ve been really impressed with the faculty and students at Southern Wesleyan University.”

Brass rubbings are transferred images from brass burial plates placed on top of ancient burial sites in churches. The brass plates featured etchings of those who are buried at the site, often with armor or medieval clothing. The plates were put on top of burial sites to prevent grave robbers from disturbing the grave, Gardiner said.

Eleanor Gardiner pauses in front of brass rubbings that are part of a collection she has donated to Southern Wesleyan University.

She has done brass rubbings in England at Westminster Abbey, All Hallows Church and St. Albans church. Gardiner’s late husband worked for the American Embassy in London and they lived there for three years.

“The brasses are the most authentic study of medieval armor,” she said.

The oldest brass plate from which she has created a rubbing was a 12th Century brass.

“They’re unique,” Gardiner said. “Every one of them has a story.”

The Smithsonian Institution was interested in the rubbings, but she chose to give them to Southern Wesleyan University instead. Judge Joseph Board, who befriended her late husband and is a friend of the university, recommended that she donate the brass rubbings.

“I knew it was the right thing to do. It’s a joy to see it come to fruition,” she said. “What could be more perfect than having them at Southern Wesleyan University?”

Dr. Paul Wood, faculty member emeritus at SWU, said the university hopes to display the brass rubbings on campus.

“The rubbings are being recorded, researched and cataloged here,” Wood said.

Gardiner started creating rubbings in 1964 on a trip to England.

“I started asking questions,” she said. “I just learned by doing.”

To make a brass rubbing, first the brass must be cleaned, Gardiner said. Then thin, draftsman’s detail paper is put over the brass plate and unrolled as heel ball wax or a crayon is used to rub the paper and transfer the brass design.

A rubbing can take four to eight hours, she said. A tiny rock on the surface of the brass can tear the rubbing paper and destroy the delicate project, she said.

Basketball 'globe trotters' take message across world

Using the language of basketball, U.S. missionaries spoke fluently to athletes in the Czech Republic.

Women's basketball team members from Southern Wesleyan University, Bethany Bible College, Houghton College and Indiana Wesleyan University recently ministered to more than 600 people during a 10-day stay in Brno, Czech Republic.

"We used the universal appeal of sports and music to build relationships where we could share God's love with the Czech people," said Southern Wesleyan University Women's Head Basketball Coach Chris Williams. "The ladies did a great job representing God, their families and Southern Wesleyan University."

"Our 10 players were among 85 athletes, coaches, musicians and support personnel from the four Wesleyan schools," he said.

The Southern Wesleyan University team competed in basketball games, conducted clinics, visited schools, interacted with children on the playgrounds and supported the Czech church and missionaries. The athletic activities during the day set the stage for special large event programs in the evenings that included concerts and special speakers.

The SWU team played three games and finished the week 2-1. They opened versus KP Brno which is a professional team in the premier division in Czech.

"Let's just say we did not win, but we did win as we were able to share about God with these young women during dinner," Williams said. "We turned it around during the second game winning by 40 points. In the final game, we pulled out a victory by 4 points over a seasoned university squad.

"At each contest we would introduce ourselves, play the game, share a testimony and then take the opposing team out to dinner. These times proved to be amazing. The ladies poured their souls into each day," he said.

Southern Wesleyan University team members included Williams, Natalie Wilkinson, Sara Vollmer, Stephanie Ott, Katie Sullivan, Tammy White, Melinda Hegeman, Beverly Jeter, Savannah Parnell, Renee Raker and Jessica Delcastillo.

The city of Brno is about three hours southeast of Prague with about 500,000 residents.

Williams said the old-world feel of the city and the architecture of the area impressed him.

"Most of the buildings there are older than our country," he said.

The people of the Czech Republic are reserved, respectful of their elders and formal, Williams said. They were nice and helpful, but quieter than the American students expected, he said.

"When they're on the bus or the tram, they look straight ahead and don't talk," Williams said of the Czech residents. The Southern Wesleyan University students made sure to be quiet and respectful, too, in an effort to blend in and respect the Czech culture.

The food in the Czech Republic was tasty, with breakfast being a bowl of liver pate, fresh bread and cheese, he said.

"We tried to eat typical Czech food," Williams said. "They eat a good bit of meat, potatoes and chicken."

The common bond of sports puts people on equal ground and gives them a way to reach one another, he said.

"We're able to meet people and bond with them through sports, and then share our faith and our relationship with Jesus,” Williams said.

Southern Wesleyan University’s girls’ basketball team also developed closer bonds than ever before, he said.

“I was proud to know that we were a tight group, even when we were tired,” Williams said. “One student’s luggage never made it, but she never complained. The other girls just shared their things with her.” All the students shared one electrical adaptor and one hair straightener. They did not have an iron for their clothes, but the focus was on connecting with people, rather than on their own appearance, Williams said.

“It wasn’t about how we looked. It wasn’t about us,” he said. The students focused their attention on reaching out to others and forming new friendships.

“Our girls tried to speak Czech,” Williams said. “The other players would speak in broken English.

“God gave us the vehicle to communicate when we needed it. We didn’t always need a translator.”

The goals for the outreach included evangelism, leadership development, promotion of ministries in the Czech Republic, church partnerships and being a “low maintenance group.”

“I would say it was a success,” Williams said. Two years of planning, praying and fund-raising were involved with the trip.

“My goal was to see us grow individually and as a unit – in a spiritual context,” Williams said. “It was unbelievable to see God move amongst our team. I’m thankful that we were able to do it.”

The trip was also a personal spiritual journey, Williams said.

“It reassured me that I’m doing the right things. It refocused me. It reminded me that I need to take time out. We make life complicated. Life isn’t really that complicated,” Williams said. “God has me at Southern Wesleyan University for a reason. It’s not to win and lose basketball games, but to help these kids develop a deeper relationship with God.”

Honor Roll of Donors 2005-2006

Members of the President's Club, the Trustees Club, the Legacy Club and the Citation Club are partnering with Southern Wesleyan University in a significant way. Leadership giving and prayer support continue to make it possible to deliver a quality Christian education to the students Southern Wesleyan University serves.
